Now hear a tale of time gone past when knights and ladies fell in love
When chivalry and honesty were more than merely words
A classic tale of good and bad of hero riding tall in saddle
Searching for the one who took his true love from his arms

And on the other side of moonlit night many troubles lay
And in another time the road was safe but long before today

Chorus

He goes riding thru the meadow grass
On trusty steed his sword in hand
To free his true love captive in a tower upon a hill
For he knows that with a heart as true as his he will not falter
He will conquer all encountered till his true loves in his arms

In modern times we sit and wonder how romantic seems the life
Of saving lovers lost and righting wrongs throughout the land
There are true knights living everywhere the helping hand the tender care
The dangers now are altered but the truth is still the same

And on the other side of moonlit night many troubles lay
And in another time the road was safe but long before today

CHORUS X 2
